Hello again!

We can't believe spring is finally here. Although it really doesn't feel much like spring here in the east coast. There's actually still some snow on the ground. Hearing the birds chirping in the morning gives me hope that flowers will soon begin to bloom and we will be able to work outside again instead of cooped up in the workshop.

Well the month of March kept us pretty busy here at Woody Things. We were busily working on fulfilling some Military orders that range from shadow boxes to coolers, challenge coin stands, personalized picture frames and keepsake boxes. One particular custom order was for a shadow box that looked like a cake box. This was something we've never tried before. It was a bit challenging but we got it done and the recipient could not have been more thrilled which made it all worth it. Take a look...

In between orders we were able to work on some fun Spring inspired DIYs like the Cotton Tailed Bunny, Pink Mason Jar Vase, and a Moss Covered Wreath (this one will be published on our site next week!).

I even got to try a technique that I had been wanting to try for quite some time now. It's called "Glass Etching," and it gives your Glass and Mirrors that frosted-over look. I couldn't believe how easy it was!

Check out the incredibly simple steps here:

These kits are popular because they make great gifts for that Do-it-Yourselfer in your life, so let your creativity loose and have some fun with the Bottle and Mason Jar Caddy kit or Wall Mounted Bottle Opener with Cap Catcher kit (all pictured below).

If you purchase one of our kits and send us a picture of your finished product we will post it in our next newsletter :)
